AN INTERFAITH MOVEMENT TO END THE PANDEMIC

© UNICEF/UN04751857

Calls to action for equitable distribution of the COVID-19 vaccine.

UNICEF has been entrusted by the Global Vaccine Alliance (GAVI) with distributing 4.1 billion COVID-19 vaccine doses equitably in 2022. The distribution is part of COVAX, the largest and fastest immunization campaign in history. Still, it will take more than a vaccine to end the pandemic. UNICEF is also supporting the development of rapid diagnostics and treatments and helping countries strengthen their health systems.

This interfaith movement to End the Pandemic looks to rally support for vaccine equity around the world. Faith communities and leaders are coming together to end the global pandemic and aid our most vulnerable communities. We know the pandemic won't be over until everyone is vaccinated.

The campaign has three aims: fundraise, advocate for vaccine equity and promote awareness about the crisis.

Will you join us in this fight against COVID-19 in dismantling health inequity around the world? We need you, and every dollar makes a difference.

TALKING POINTS

- The global COVID-19 pandemic is overstressing health systems, exacerbating deep inequities within countries and across regions, and causing children to face widespread disparities.
- 90% of countries have experienced a disruption in their ability to provide crucial healthcare services, leaving millions of children at risk of illness and death.
- The Access to COVID-19 Tools (ACT) Accelerator is a global collaboration that accelerates development, production and equitable access to COVID-19 tests, treatments and vaccines.
- UNICEF has been asked to play a strategic role in leading efforts to procure and supply COVID-19 vaccines for over 180 countries in what is likely be the world's largest and fastest ever vaccine rollout.
- UNICEF's decades of work with communities, governments and partners will be brought to bear as countries prepare for the delivery of COVID-19 vaccines.
- UNICEF is also offering technical assistance on vaccine policies and strategies and building community engagement and awareness to ensure there is demand for vaccines when they arrive.
- Where transmission is high and unchecked (i.e., without treatments and vaccines) the virus is more likely to mutate. As COVID-19 mutates, there is a growing risk that current tests, treatments and vaccines may become less effective or even stop working.
- To end the pandemic, we must work together. Global solidarity isn't just the right thing to do. It's the fastest and most effective way to defeat the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Your contribution will go towards ensuring that in 2022, UNICEF and partners will deliver 4.1 billion vaccines and 21 million test kits across more than 180 countries in a safe and equitable way.
